Breaking Away

Summer ends, school starts, and thus begins the filming of the college movie. The summer that seemed so eternal has now dispersed and onward students go through innocent vistas. Each individual has acquired the role of student, in which no script is given. One is only to act naturally, with occasional direction by faculty and upperclassmen. Viewing the set, modern and antiquarian buildings squat among dense foliage with finicky squirrels running amok. Filled with nervous excitement and anticipation, incoming students must break away from the comfort and solace their previous home offered. No more proms, no more home-cooked meals--each student must now embark on an educational journey. Bringing forth new ideas and various personalities, college becomes a symbol for all: a film of picturesque dreams, concrete goals, and infinite boundaries. Day by day the camera rolls, adding frame upon frame, scene upon scene, for the filming begins as soon as students start their first day here at Queens, never to cease till the students reach that final point in their college career: graduation, where goals are reached and dreams explode into reality...

Look out -- it is The Thing with Two Heads!!!! Oh, sorry, it is just Kenny Dadisman and Sally Stewart in some strange position.

If Amy Tate didn't have a smile on her face she would have the look of a Lady in Distress.

Jay McBride tries to act like an Underwater Warrior by seeing how long he can hold his breath.

The Producers

Without a doubt, the faculty and staff at Queens are a dedicated group of individuals. They are the producers of the ongoing college movie, guiding and directing students along the parameters of education. Each professor and administrator possesses exceptional skills and abilities which add to the quality of the film process. At times, however, faculty members are faced with students who tend to overact their parts. When disciplinary action is taken, and, in most cases, a valuable lesson is learned. No movie can be made without the loving guidance and caring supervision that our faculty exhibits. With their willingness to share both their time and effort, they produce an environment conducive to the learning process, gradually directing and molding the students' characters into real members of society and preparing them for the challenge of the future.

Jonni Deresinski smiles and replies I am the Cheese.

Look at the Jumping Jacks, Joe Ficarrotta and Greg Waldrop. Oh how cute. NOT!

Psycho

As the infamous Norman Bates once said, "All of us go a little mad sometimes." Here at college, students are apt to go mad quite a few times. Perhaps it is due to final exams or maybe some poor guy has to go to the bathroom but he finds himself trapped in Albright after hours. Yes, we all go crazy one time or another. When the pressures of school life become burdensome, it is easy to forget one's role as student. Sometimes you just feel like screaming or becoming inebriated, particularly when you are in the shower during a fire drill or when your mind goes blank during a professor's quiz. Going crazy, becoming frustrated--all are inevitable. Yet, over a period of time, each student becomes less prone to such reverie, allowing himself to gain control of that "unwritten script" concerning college. The element of surprise may always exist, as well as the tendency to go "Psycho" but through persistence, each student usually achieves some sense of stability, enabling one to cope with the travails of college life.

Christa Jones and Anne Williams show everybody what Divas they are.

The Last Picture Show

Images flicker and with a changing of the reels of the life projector, the last scenes of college life are acted out completely. The college experience for Seniors has been a four-star movie, rapidly changing before their very eyes. What once was as is no more, and what was so far away now comes on with a blinding force. Happy are the days to graduation, yet an enveloping sadness also exists as the seniors realize that this is indeed the last picture show. The real world awaits without bias, eager for victims. Yet, with education, a degree, a career preparation, Queens' graduates readily confront the terror of the job market with unshakable superiority, excelling regardless of the impediments that may be strewn in their way. This is the class of '92, an unique group of individuals who only share their graduating year in common. While many a director or producer may have simply equated them with past Senior actors, the Class of 1992 still remains that unified group in which its members possess a melting pot of characteristics and highly individualized traits. Performance is now secondary, the Seniors acting skills fully automatic. With graduation, their picture show has ended, the films of memories to reside within themselves. Yes, their picture show has ended, but their lives have just begun...

Fun And Games

So you don't think life at Queens College is like "Animal House?" Well, maybe not, but it's not as academic as "The Race for the Double Helix" either. Life at Queens is easy going, but we do have to make "Hard Choices" whether to go out or study, what activity to participate in or even what club to belong to. Life at Queens isn't "Easy Street" but imagine "Trading Places" with someone who is a non-student in the real world. We know it's "A Mad, Mad, Mad World" so while at Queens we try to be happy and of course have as much fun as we can so we can have "A Wonderful Life."

ORIENTATION '91

COLLEGE LIFE IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT

Saturday, August 24, 1991. This was the beginning of the end. Most of us had just left our homes, leaving our parents Home Alone for the first time. The security we once felt was now gone...at least for now. Our first day here on campus was full of excitement, anticipation, High Anxiety, and confusion. Orientation made all these feelings a little less threatening. The five days of Orientation were filled with many scheduled events. They ranged from academic advising meetings to movie nights. Needless to say, we didn't have any time to get homesick. Playfair was one of the most memorable events of Orientation. It was where students got together and played breaking the ice kinds of games.. It was also a wonderful time to meet other students and make friends. Orientation was very successful once again.

Freshman Elena Cuebas seems to have brought everything she owns with her. Heather Edwards is thinking What have I done to Deserve this?

Sisters Acquawon and Shay move in on Orientation Day.

Jay McBride and Stuart Hair are Side by Side in their boycott of their unloading duties.

Rebecca Wilson and Tammy Green thank God for a double room, because there is no way they could make Room for One More.

The Party

During Orientation week, Student Development started things off well with a lawn party for the students. It was called Fall Fest. It took place in the Dorm Quad. Morrison provided a Picnic on the Grass while Student Development provided carnival Games. Some of The Games were ring toss, frog flip, and of course the dunking booth.

There was also a DJ provided by Student Development. The Music Man played the hits and gave away free prizes. Even though the Rain came to destroy The Party everybody helped to move the games into the dorm lobbies. Rain or Shine Queens College students are going to have fun.

Vernetta Burrows forgets the game and Twirls with excitement.

Paxton Mobley, the Rude Boy, makes a gesture of dislike of the ring toss game.

Mary Beth Cole disobeys the sign, "Do not hit target with hand," and poor Amy Lim is a Sitting Duck.

Stuart Hair attempts to be a Slammer in basketball.

Family Reunion

As fall rolled around here at Queens College the time came again for Mommy Dearest and Dad to leave sons and daughters Home Alone. Yes, that Family Affair called Parents' Weekend had arrived. Although it wasn't meant to be a Parent Trap many students begged their way into new clothes, real food, and maybe a car for the semester, but, hey, that is the joy of Parenthood. While every family isn't as close as The Swiss Family Robinson they all seemed to enjoy the luncheon sponsored by Marriott and the time that families spent together.

At Mother's Request students led them through all the professors to find the ones that were to enhance the semester ahead, as well as those who were special from the past.

As the weekend came to a close, families said goodbye to one another. Mom and Dad headed back home and students got ready to plow back into studies and weekly campus activities.

Let Them Have The Spotlight

On "Senior Recognition Day" the enthusiastic seniors realize the significance of their last year of college. They realize that it is the beginning of the end. Seniors acknowledge that unforgettable college Bliss of little work and lots of play will vanish in nearly eight months with their entrance into the real world. With this in mind seniors celebrate their present position by participating in Senior Traditions. The seniors ran through the dorms at four in the morning to complete "Operation Dorm Storm."

With the seniors being frustrated with the parking situation at Queens the seniors drew up a contract that demanded a strictly senior parking lot. The contract was presented to Dr. Wireman along with the tires from his Jaguar at the senior convocation. He signed the contract and then found out those weren't his tires at all. Of course after the convocation the seniors had a skip party in front of Long. All day and night the mighty seniors partied till they passed out or went to bed.

LOOK OUT! THEY'RE HERE!

The Witches, The Vampires, Zombies, Ghoulies, The Devils of Darkness, and The Night-breed all came out to play on All Hallow's Eve at Queens college.

Students started celebrating Halloween early by decorating their doors and carving Pumpkinheads. Some students even went door to door saying the old phrase Trick or Treat.

A DJ was spinning the tunes that night in Morrison Dining Hall so all the creepy people could dance the night away until the sun rose of course. It was a howling good time!!

Dramatic School

Jane Hadley directed the show "University" for the fall drama production at Queens College. The show consisted of several different skits all relating to the ups and downs of college life. There was a message in each scene. The cast consisted of Misty Basham, Jason Buckner, Craig Clickner, Kenny Dadisman, Sean Frazier, Jennifer Harris, Robert Holt, Beth Johnson, Lorien Johnson, Erin Lehn, Ryan Peterson, Sally Stewart, Greg Waldrop, and Claire Whitworth.

Let the Feasting Begin!

It is Christmas time and Guess Who's Coming To Dinner? On Tuesday, December 3, 1991, Morrison Dining Hall was turned into Cafe Society because Dinner at 8 was the highlight of the night. Get rid of those Oxford Blues; all were invited to the Queens Boar's Head Banquet. The Boar's Head legend began at Queens College, Oxford, England, when a student was attacked by a wild boar. The young man shoved a book of Aristotle down the animal's throat and choked it to death. The animal was carried back to the college and the students had a great feast. Queens in Charlotte began our tradition in 1933. Students that are in the procession dress in traditional costumes and carry the boar's head in on a platter. The scene looks like it is straight out of Monty Python and the Holy Grail. Before the Chimes at Midnight, everyone bustles to the Yule Log Ceremony in the middle of the dorm quad, and sings Christmas carols. To end the festivities the carolers throw holly sprigs into the fire and make wishes for the new year.

Jennifer Lavinder Smiles as she walks down the aisle in the Boar's Head procession. Jay McBride, The Man With Cloak, starts off the Boar's Head Parade.

Ann Irwin and Amy Tate join the Boar's Head Parade carrying with them the boar's head.

Silly O and friends seem to have the attitude about Sing Your Worries Away It is Christmas time.

Let the Good Times Roll

Casino Party was on December 6, 1991, and it was no big gamble. Morrison Dining Hall was turned into Las Vegas, packed with people looking for The Color of Money. The entire Queens campus came out to prove they had The Lucky Streak.

Tickets were sold at ten dollars a couple. Students imported a date from another school or grabbed one from around the campus. The gents were Dressed to Kill in their tuxedos while the Dames looked like royalty in their festive sparkling gowns.

Now you ask who the dealers were. No one other than the professors, who really seemed to know their cards well.

The students were given a tray of chips as soon as they walked in the door, so they were free to start the gambling as soon as they wanted to. Downside to that is some couples lost big and they would have to ask their peers for a loan. If they didn't get a loan they would hit the buffet table or dance to the jazz band belting the blues.

Those who did have chips were able to bid in the auction that gave away great prizes in exchange for the chips. Overall the glitzy evening was a big hit with everyone.

Alpine Europe

I considered myself very "Internationally Experienced" after conquering the Alps and 4 European countries in 21 days with 39 other people. Professors Bowers, Jann, Mowrey, Thompson, and Whalen and the students braved the January wind and snow to visit Munich, Salzburg, Innsbruck, Colmar, Strasbourg, and Frankfurt. This year's Alpine Tour included a trip to Dachau, one of the Nazi concentration camps; The Sound of Music movie tour, showing sites from this popular movie; Alpine skiing in Innsbruck (for the brave); wine tasting on the French countryside; and the ever popular Hofbraushaus in Munich. -Christa Jones

Central Europe Tour

A group of 27 Queens students left Charlotte on New Year's Day for the IEP Central European Study Tour. Tour leaders were Dr. Virginia Martin and Dr. David Petts, with Dr. Joyce Shealy along for the ride. Dr. Billy O. Wireman even accompanied the students through the tour's second stop, Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The first stop was Berlin, once again the capital of the united Germany, where students visited the Brandenburg Gate and met with an official from the city of Berlin. The students then took a train to Prague, where they visited the centuries-old Prague Castle and met with Czech students in Kladno. From Prague, the tour continued on to Budapest, Hungary, where the participants visited Heroes' Square and traveled along the Danube River. The students followed the Danube all the way to Vienna, Austria, where they toured Schonbrunn Palace, St. Stephen's Cathedral, and the Kunsthistorisches Museum. Following Vienna, the tour moved on to beautiful Salzburg, where highlights included a tour of the Hohensalzburg Fortress, the Sound of Music tour of the Lake District, and a visit to a salt mine in Berchtesgaden, Germany. The group's final destination was the Bavarian metropolis of Munich, Germany, where several group members visited Dachau concentration camp, and many others sampled the pleasures of the world-famous Hofbrauhaus.

The central European Study Tour exposed students to the Western glitter and sophistication of Vienna, the struggle for free market capitalism in Prague and Budapest, and the unique combination of the two in once-divided Berlin. By seeing such a large variety of cities, participants on the study tour were able to gain a greater knowledge about a fascinating and important region of Europe.

Italy

Italy Study tour was the last group to leave Charlotte and it was the smallest group -- 3 guys, 25 women, and 3 professors. The tour guides were Professors Richard Goode, Charles Hadley and Jane Hadley. They made every minute of Italy exciting. The plane ride over was exhausting but fun. We landed in Frankfurt, Germany, then flew to Naples, Italy. There we met Roby Muntoni, our resident Italian from Queens, and our bus driver Paulo. Paulo was a good driver but crazy as hell to drive on the streets of Italy, let alone in a huge bus. Our first stop was Sorrento, where we took a bus tour of the Amalfi Coast on a little winding road that went every which way for two hours, but the view and the crystal blue and green sea was worth it. Went to Pompeii and Paestum and played hide and seek in the ruins. Oh, don't forget our Paestum doggies that got stuck doing you know what. Went to Rome next for five days. It was incredible how much ancient ruins are mixed in with modern buildings. We saw about every piece of art that has any significance to the art world -- the Sistine Chapel, The Rape of Persephone, La Primavera, School of Athens, The Forum, the list goes on and on. Dr. Goode took some students on a trek from hell through monoid tunnels to get to the Bourgesa Gardens. It was worth the trip, Dr. Goode. Mary Weeks knocked some gypsy girl in the head with a water bottle to get little fingers off her money. Florence was next where we saw more and more wonderful art, like Michangelo's David. After Florence was Venice. It was beautiful, although a little chilly, being on the water. The best thing at Venice was feeding the swarms of pigeons and going to the Guggenheim Museum of Modern Art. Took a 20min. boat ride to the airport to fly back to Frankfurt. Last we took a trip to Rottenburg and played in the snow all day long. Then we came back to Charlotte. Ciao! - Kenny Dadisman

Prince of the City

Fifteen male students from Queens College lined up at the end of Morrison Dining Hall Dressed to Kill ready to strut The Right Stuff for the first annual Royal Prince contest. This event was sponsored by Students for Black Awareness. They asked contestants to have a talent, show off their fashions, and answer a judge's question. For the fashions, stores from Southpark Mall lent GQ fashions for the guys to model. The contestants were able to choose from different stores. Mitchell's Formal Wear lent The Studs tuxes so they could look their best.

The talent competition was quite a sight to see. There was The Comedy Man Greg Waldrop and his one-person impersonation show. Brad Morgan composed and conducted himself in a strange musical talent. Robbie Ammans sang Garth while Kenny Dadisman, dressed in a grass skirt and coconut bra, sang a song from South Pacific. Chris Koch played The Karate Kid with his Aikido demonstration. Bereket Tseggai played a tune from his native land with help from Ron Moore and Kenneith Perrin sang a song of inspiration. Then came time for the questioning. Questions were given to the final six contestants. Those six consisted of Kenny Dadisman, Greg Hall, Charles Mason, Kenneith Perrin, Bereket Tseggai, and Greg Waldrop. Sixth place was Greg Hall. Fifth place was Charles Mason. Fourth place was Kenny Dadisman. Third place was given to Bereket, who won $25. Greg Waldrop came in second with a $50 prize and Kenneith Perrin was crowned Prince with a $75 prize.

Shakespeare at Queens

The Spring Drama Production was directed by Doug Minnerly. Minnerly chose a play by William Shakespeare called "Much Ado About Nothing." But Minnerly put a twist on the play and Time Stands Still as the audience is transported back to the period right after World War II. Costumes and music by the Andrews Sisters make the transportation more effective. This was the last play at Queens for our graduates Leigh Fiser and Sean Frazier; we will miss them. Not to be rude but back to the play. It is full of Love, fights, military, villains, good guys, A Damsel in Distress, weddings, family quarrels, overhearing, mistakes, mistaken identities, music, death, justice, and of course a happy ending.

May Day

May Day festivities at Queens College have been a tradition for many years. It is the big weekend activity for the spring semester. This year the activities started off on Thursday afternoon with a lawn concert held in the dorm quad. Everybody came out Dancing Coed style for the great music provided by "The Unknowns." The next event came Saturday morning when the May Court was presented. Two females and two males were picked by fellow students to represent them in their class. The Candidates were presented by class, the women in their white formal gowns, the men sporting their tuxes. Of course as with any court there needs to be a King and Queen and they are chosen by the student body from the senior representatives. This year's King and Queen are Kevin Harris and Desma Johnson.

The day is Saturday, May 16, 1992. The event is the graduation of the Class of 1992. It is time for our seniors to say bye-bye to Queens and enter the real world, which could be a job or graduate school. The ceremony was held at Burwell Lawns at 10:00 am in the bright sunshine. Dr. Paula P. Brownlee addressed the graduating class on the subject of "Taking Time to Make a Difference." Desma Johnson was awarded the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award and Nancy Breece was recognized as having the highest grade point for the CAS graduating class. The ceremony lasted for a couple of hours. When it was over graduates rushed to see family and friends who came to see them graduate. Best Wishes for the Class of '92.

The Professionals

Professors here at Queens exhibit abilities that surpass any other professors at other so-called colleges. Their "Stand and Deliver" lectures serve as fuel to get students to think for themselves and open their minds to new learning. Administrators are here to be our "Friends," not like Big Brother from "1984." Maintenance and Building Services help to keep the campus grounds and buildings looking their best. Let's not forget Marriott for their wonderful service to the school.

Dedication 91-92

In memory of Carolyn M. Jones and in honor of David Peterson

Throughout the college movie-making process, there are individuals who inspire and influence the students. Such individuals are recognized for their contribution to the film process. The Class of 1992 wishes to dedicate this volume of the Arete to two such outstanding individuals: Dr. Carolyn Jones and Mr. David Peterson.

Dr. Carolyn Jones served as Chair of the Queens Division of Nursing from 1981 until 1992. Dr. Jones was an inspiration to us all, showing remarkable fortitude and tenacity in her fight against cancer. Unfortunately Carolyn Jones is no longer with us, but as her nursing students so aptly put it, she is the wind beneath their wings, encouraging them with her strength, her courage, and her undaunted spirit. She will not be forgotten but deeply remembered.

David Peterson is the Post Master at Queens and he has served the campus well for nine years. He is one individual who knows everybody's name on campus and makes the students his concern. He always has a smiling face for you as you walk in to pick up your overflow mail. His dedication and enthusiasm for his job and toward the students make picking up one's mail one of the best events of the day unless there are bills.

Both Carolyn Jones and David Peterson have shown their dedication to the student body, and the Class of 1992 proudly dedicates the 1991-92 Arete to them and thanks them for their hard work and enthusiasm.

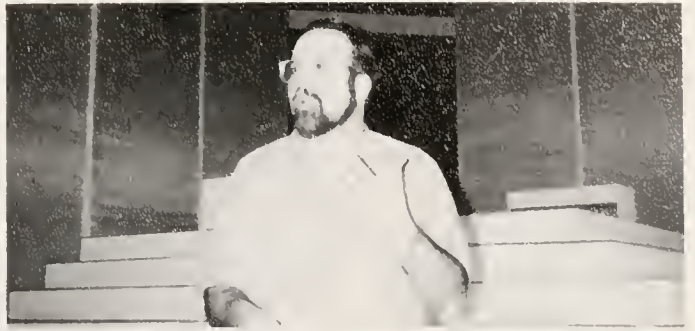

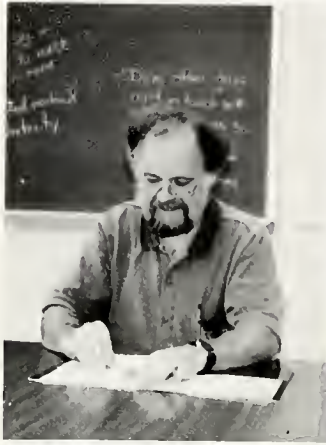

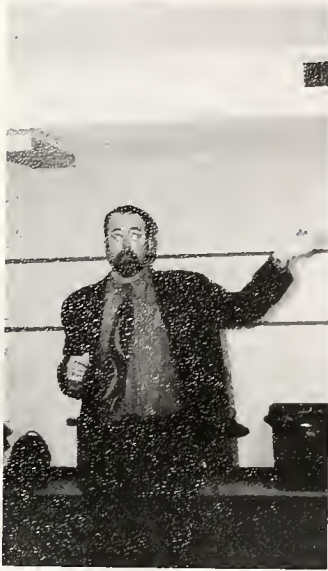

Class

“The Freshman,” sophomores, juniors, and seniors each will have their turn as “The Graduate”s but until then we will share a “Togetherness” on this lovely campus.

The freshmen cry don’t “Gimme an F” just because we don’t understand “The Epic of Gilgamesh.” The sophomores have their “Eyes on the Prize” for an A on their the is. Wide-eyed juniors sing “La Bamba” as they wathch “Donna Flora and Her Two Husbands.” A mix of juniors and seniors took their European Vacations during January Term (the last January term we will see). The seniors just partied hard while preparing for their future in the real world. All in all the experiences that we have encountered as a class make us “Dretty Smart” “Crittters.”

A Class of Finalities

Many of the past classes have proudly staked their claim to being the class of "firsts." Whether it be the first class to include males or the first class to experience the curriculum of Liberal Learning, many other classes besides the Class of 1992 can look back on their years at Queens College and remember themselves in this manner. However, the Class of 1992 stands alone as the one that can proudly stake its claim as the class of "lasts," not firsts. We are the last class to experience the enlightening courses of Humanities 211-214; the last class to officially experience "dorm storm" at its peak; the last class to go to Carowinds during freshman orientation in 1988; the last class to sing "Violent Love" to girls with first dates; the last class to have to sign in our male visitors at the dorm's front desk; and the last class to be able to enter dorms freely from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. without using access cards. We can ideally reflect back on our four years at Queens College and see ourselves as the "Class of Finalities," while we take comfort in the Biblical quote: "The last shall be first and the first shall be last." Many changes have occurred during our days at Queens, some good and some bad, but all within the process of growth for Queens as an institution, community, and home. We have undoubtedly pushed the tolerable limits of the Queens College administrators with our immoderate hall crawls and our destructive dorm storm. In our way we have challenged the constraints of the establishment. While many think we were fighting a losing battle, we certainly had a good time trying. I am hopeful that other classes join in the Queens tradition of challenging the system to effect productive change. Previous classes have set this tradition in motion and the Class of 1992 can proudly claim that we have kept the wheels of challenge turning. By Connie Weber

Remember When 1988-1992

Doug sang "Party Girl" -- ABM. Kevin used a knife instead of a gun -- ABM. You know who, did you know what, in front of you know where and had to clean the toilets -- MAW. We thought the administration cared. Dr. Newman and "Is someone speaking?" -- LO & AT. Eight of us in SL's Floor -- LO. We had dorm skeezers? -- ABM. Finger Lickin Good and 59 cents Values -- TTF. Five people in a four man tent. Art drank more! -- ABM. We all were total women -- DLS. We condemned Sarah's side of the room and gave her an eviction notice -- DEC. We were excited to go to Davidson -- MW & AI. Derek lost his mind and got engaged! -- JM. Dana fell off the boat -- MT. Underclassmen actually respect seniors! Billy Rowe! Changing positions in Key West -- MW. The Weenie Mobile -- AT. Freshman year when Brad got drunk and tried to go on the roof of Harris in a toga? Guys had to sign in at the front desk and Uzma was desk patrol of Harris -- DW. We used to sing "Violent Love" to people with first dates -- AI. Saying successive "Hail Mary's" while running from Albright to Suzanne Little during Hurricane Hugo -- CHW. Freshman year, hiding out in closets in Albright and sneaking out at 7 a.m. -- MW & AI. Derek hurled on Jay's feet and Jay spewed in Rainbow Deli. Chris Brady's feet -- LO & AT. Catherine and the baby powder trauma -- SB. Not taking showers freshman year, Melissa Black especially -- TH. Catherine carried a 250 watt zapper to fight off attackers -- CHW. We sang "Paradise by the Dashboard Light" all through Britain. We drank Hammer of the Gods at our toga party during our first J-term -- MAS. Andy used to hang out the second floor window of Belk -- ABM. Heather B. tried to buy beer at the A&P with her Marriot card during Rex Day -- CHW. Connie got "The Pox" -- JPG. The phone mysteriously got ripped out of the wall -- MAT. Brad dyed his hair fudge ripple? -- CHW. Scott's red shirt could stand on its own. WH, SW, and KH got the blue light special. Mr. Kim washed his feet in the sink. Derek and Art hit on the same South Carolina girl. JG wanted to plug her phone into Connie's room so she could get her phone calls -- CHW. We played "I NEVER" together and only a few of us drank! Now we don't even play - we just drink! -- MB. Starting on Homes papers at 12 a.m. - overdosing on No-Doz and cigarettes. UMI goes to the Pterodactyl. Toni gets arrested. -- TRS. Bitch sessions at Spring Garden! That pre-med back rub!!! -- MW. When it cost $23 per senior to run trough the dorms! -- MPS. Men were measured by the letter "L". Tonya fell in the shower. AI & MW took CW to The Cellar and traumatized her -- CHW.

Miss Becky Rowell was a senior at Queens College. Becky was also a loyal friend, a caring daughter, and loving sister. However, she died on March 27, 1992. Her death was and will remain a mystery to everyone who knew her. Becky made her mark on the Queens community and will be remembered for her long list of accomplishments and her kind friendship. Becky was president of the Honor Society. She came to Queens on tennis and biology scholarships. She was a member of the Queens basketball and tennis teams.

Becky was also vice president of the Tau Tau chapter of Beta Beta Beta, an honorary biology society. She was secretary of the southeast district of Beta Beta Beta and a member of the Mortar Board Society, an honorary leadership and scholarship society. The Queens community survived our grief and loss by realizing that Becky has now gained peace. Many things have happened at Queens in the year of 1992, but it will be remembered as the year Queens College and the rest of the world lost Becky Jane Rowell.

JUNIORS

Although we are the second class to have guys, we are still the biggest "Class." We have "The Best of Everything." We're great people with great personalities who have a lot to offer the college and usually do. We are the guinea pigs for the whole Liberal Learning program. We will also be the first class to graduate with the whole Liberal Learning Program under our belt. Next year is ours, so watch out for the Junior "Rampage," cause we're ready to "Party."

Making The Grade

In order to be "The Graduate" we need all sorts of academics. Not everybody likes to study, but every fall we make the pilgrimage "Back To School," unless you have been in "Summer School" and have had enough.

With all these graduation requirements it's a wonder no one goes "Psycho." No kidding, look at our "Nutty Professors" - every other week they instigate a "Paper Chase" on some historical or literary "Giant." So much for "Fast Times" at Queens College.

Guest in

"Extra! Extra! Read all about him!" - and over 500 newspapers make it possible. Syndicated columnist Art Buchwald came to Queens first semester through the Learning Society. Buchwald gave three different sessions while here, giving plenty of opportunity for students and the public alike to hear his colorful stories and excellent advice.

This was a special treat for journalism students who dream of being "News Hounds" one day. When asked what his advice would be for a journalism student today he responded, "Write, write, write! and don't ever let anyone tell you you're no good."

Art Buchwald gives the expert's advice to some journalism hopefuls.

Always full of colorful anecdotes, Buchwald responds to another student's question.

Art Buchwald speaks to Prof. Waite's communication class during his visit.

Staci Benson and Jonette Harp socialize after the Belk Chap question and answer session with Buchwald.

the House

ss Perot, Texas billionaire, visits Queens.

Second semester, the Learning Society brought Texas billionaire Ross Perot to Queens. Perot gave two lectures while here. At the Honors and Awards Convocation he gave an enlightening speech on "The Secrets of My Success."

In the evening at the program given for students and the public alike, Perot gave business tips for Men at Work and Working Girls. His visit was a treat for everyone because nowhere can success be found to match Perot's. How about Perot for President?

Greg Waldrop demonstrates his new impersonation of Ross Perot for friends.

in Slater waits for Perot's evening lecture to begin.

Diversity Day

Diversity Day is a new thing that hit campus during March of 92. It was held out in front of Burwell and was an all day event. Students and faculty came out to have their names translated into Chinese, watch the African folk dancing and of course to listen to the DJ. The DJ would have contests in dancing, limbo, and hula hoops. Everyone seemed to be Bustin' Loose from those academic Blues. Booths were scattered along the lawn to show how diverse everyone is in relation to international, cultural, environmental, and sexual issues. Although this year's Diversity Day happened at the same time Rex Day happened last year, it did not take the place of it. Diversity Day was a pleasant and educational substitute for Rex Day.

Club Life

Campus Life unfolds and ideas abound when organizations of Queens engage in social activities. Sincere interests and the willingness to work toward a common goal are the foundations of a successful club here at Queens. Through the formation of "The Organizations," a sense of community is developed and the interaction among Queens students is enhanced.

Mortar Board

Mortar Board is a national honor society of college seniors. The society recognizes in its membership the qualities of superior scholastic ability, outstanding and continual leadership, and dedicated service to the college and community. The Orb and Scepter Chapter at Queens College has worked hard to uphold these standards. This year we had 14 members and would like to recognize the contributions of Becky Rowell with a donation to the science department in her memory. We proudly initiated 2 new members for the 1992-93 school year.

Honor Council

The Honor Council is an elected board chosen by the students of Queens. We hear all academic violations of the Honor Code working to ensure the integrity of our system. Our job is a difficult one as we maintain confidentiality, objectivity, and honesty; however, our efforts are worthwhile and integral to the life at Queens.

International Club

sponsored Chinese Sit-Down Dinner. Brought "A Closer Look at the Soviet Union," a "Christmas Around the World," and "A Closer Look at Latin America," which are displays that were in the library. Held VIP Society reception and attended the Fort Caswell International Student Conference and the Mars Hill International Student Conference. A Diversity Day co-sponsor.

Music Therapy Club

Aikido Club

The Aikido Club took form in the fall of '91. Christopher Koch instructs the club with the help of Brad Morgan and Greg Waldrop. The Aikido Club centers on Aikido, a defensive martial art. The club is new and expects to enjoy many activities next year including several tournaments, guest speakers, and field trips. Some of the most dedicated students are: Brad Morgan, Cara Smith, Greg Waldrop, Jerry Zurzolo, Allison Eubanks, Neil Craig, McRae Fairey, and Derek Painter.

This 29th Masters of Business Administration Class of 1992 is a special class since it is the first year graduate students are being featured in Arete. The Class wants to thank those that made the class what it is: Marcia Stefan, Katie Wireman, Prof. Cathy Haselden, Dr. Kathy Iversen, Prof. Tim Burson, Prof. Jim Foster, Dr. Robert Finley, Dr. Randy Kincaid, Dr. Darrel Miller, and Dr. Don Wallace.

Sailing Club

The Sailing Club is open to all students, faculty, and staff. The only requirements are an interest in sailing and the ability to swim. While sailing theory is obtained during the classroom meetings, the real fun comes during the sailing outings at Davidson Lake Norman Campus. Club members have been able to learn sailing basics including winds, points of sail, knots, and person overboard safety procedures.

BSU

The Baptist Student Union of Queens College was very active this year. The membership doubled and is now up to 16 regular members. The organization is open to anyone regardless of their religious affiliation. They are funded partially by Baptist Campus Ministries, hence the name. Weekly Bible studies and two conferences during the year make up only a small part of the BSU activities on and off campus.

Yearbook

Being on the yearbook staff gives students the chance to record the events and the people at Queens. It is like a diary or a memory of that year. Students get to do everything from selling ads, taking pictures, writing articles and captions, to choosing the theme, cover, color and layout designs of the yearbook. It is a great learning experience and a lot of fun to be on staff.

The Staff: Danny, Kenny, Alicia, Shelley and Sandra. Those not pictured are Gina Calzada, Carrie Cash, Nikki Boyce, Adam Austin, Kenan Donaldson, Jenine Parks, Joe Ficarrotta, Wendy Waite, Elena Cuebas.

In November of 1991, ten general members of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. formed A Strand of Pearls II in order to work toward chartering a chapter on the campus of Queens College in Charlotte, NC. In April of 1992, three additional Queens College women became members of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. and A Strand of Pearls II. On May 3, 1992, Pi Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. was chartered on the campus of Queens College. The charter members are as follows: Chanda Bass, Sybil Brow, Odette Burgess, Cher Delaney, Stacey Hawkins, Vanessa Jenkins, Lena Kombo, Lisa Rainey, Jennifer Sands, Angie Smith, Tonya Smith, Alisa Walker and Donzetta Workman.

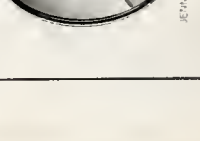

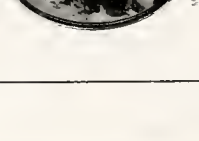

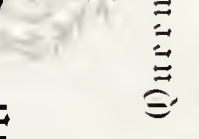

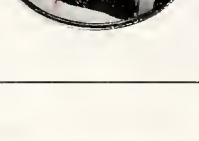

Fall 1991 brought Lena Kombo, Chanda Bass, not pictured Cher Delaney and Jennifer Sands.

Officers: Vanessa Jenkins-Treasurer; Jennifer Sands-Public Relations Person; Cher Delaney-Corresponding Secretary; Chanda Bass-Recording Secretary; Stacey Hawkins-Vice President; Lisa Rainey-President.

Phi Mu

Phi Mu's greatest effort this year went to the Children's Miracle Network. The house and Charlotte Alumni raised over $3,400 between calling for the telethon and working with alumni at the Cute Kids Contest held at Carolina Place. They also volunteered time to complete clerical duties by sending pledge sheets to donors. Over the summer, Phi Mu will present a check to CMN on the televised local telethon. The Phi Mu's spent Halloween visiting children at the Carolinas Medical Center and at Christmas they made Gingerbread Houses with the alumni to donate to special groups. In the spring the Pink Carnation Ball was a "Toad-al blast" and luau was the highlight of the May Day Weekend.

Queens College Charlotte, N.C.

Kappa Delta

This year was a busy one for Kappa Deltas. With the fall came a new semester and Informal Rush. Two pledges were gained from that. Also in September initiation was held for two pledges from Spring semester 1991. Preparation for deferred Rush in the Spring was well under way and Kappa Delta were excited.

After a relaxing Christmas break and J-term that found some of our KΔ juniors in Europe, it was time to buckle down for Rush. The parties were a success and the re-decorating of the house, which finished up right before Rush, helped KΔ gain eight awesome pledges.

Along with March came KΔ's Shamrock Project where they sponsored President for a Day. The proceeds benefitted the Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va. and The National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse. In April came The Emerald Ball and it was a great success. Initiation for the new pledges took place on May 5 and that put an end to the KΔ year, but only the beginning of the summer.

Pi Kappa Phi

Pi Kappa Phi enjoyed a very successful 1991-1992 school year. A formal rush during the Fall Semester included a trip to Chimney Rock National Park. The annual chapter retreat was held at Lake Greenwood, SC. A trip was also made in the fall to the College of Charleston where Pi Kappa Phi was founded in 1904. The Spring Semester was very exciting for everyone. Members participated in several very strenuous work projects for P.U.S.H (People Understanding the Severely Handicapped), the Pi Kapps' National Philanthropy. After three years as an associate chapter, the Pi Kapps presented a petition to charter to the Administrative Office and forwarded it to the National Council. A chartering weekend, which included presentation of the charter and full initiation of all members, was held May 15 to May 17, 1992.

Sigma

On February 16, 1992, Sigma Fraternity was created by fourteen dedicated men who had the goal of giving the male population on this campus a choice on which fraternity they would like to join. Sigma Fraternity is dedicated to four principles: Scholarship, Citizenship, Brotherhood, and Civic Responsibility. This year we have accomplished many things as a fraternity including winning this year's Greek Games, working with an Oasis project, and working at the Uptown Men's Shelter. Sigma Fraternity's view on choosing members can be best represented by this statement from Vice President Tom Bell: "We have decided to only ask those like us to become part of us. We will allow no exceptions and this will strengthen our existence."

JOCKS

The "Players" of Queens Athletic Programs are more than just a "Royal Flash." During any season we can support our teams and "See How They Run." With the agility of "The Fly," Queens proves that we aren't "The Bad News Bears," but "We're No Angels," either! The women aren't concerned with the "Royal Romance of Charles & Diana" and the men don't read up on how to be the ideal "Perfect Gentlemen." "Nobody's Perfect," but in team sports there's no such thing as an "Odd Couple." Sports at Queens is a "Royal Scandal" that'll always make the "News at Eleven." We have the zest that shows that "Wild Hearts Can't Be Broken" because our playing field is a "Field Of Dreams."

The Gossip Columnist

Well, it's not just another "L.A. Story." The events of the year have been both exciting and destructive. With a series of "He Said, She Said" the world went through some major changes during 1991-92. Hollywood gave us some innovative new movies. Internationally, innovative changes were made to give us the New World Order. Overall, the year has been one of doing things "The Hard Way" but ending up with "True Colors."

International

At the beginning of the school year President George Bush was faced with a war in the Middle East and a recession here at home.

The President's right hand man, Secretary of State James Baker, was indispensable during the Middle East Crisis.

Thousands of Iraqis were killed after Saddam Hussein invaded Kuwait. The allies were able to force a retreat but Hussein remained in power.

President Mikhail Gorbachev of the Soviet Union was ousted by a coup in August. The coup was overthrown but Gorbachev stepped down and the Soviet Union is no more.

Russian President Boris Yeltsin called on Russians to resist the coup and help bring Gorbachev back. Soon after, Russian tanks and other military gear moved into Moscow.

News

The anti-coup demonstration is just one of many that brought an end to communist rule in the Soviet Union. It has also brought about the New World Order.

The group of seven industrial democracies (known as G-7) held an economic summit at the Tower of London. This summit dealt with a wide range of issues- from world economic policy to international trade.

One rallying point for international environmentalists was the Brazilian rain forest. Thousands of square miles of forest were being cut. Protesters from around the world worked to stop it.

During the war in Iraq, Saddam Hussein's forces ignited hundreds of oil wells in Kuwait. Smoke belched from the torched wells for many months afterwards.

National News

After nearly 7 years as a hostage, Terry Anderson was released on December 4, 1991. Anderson spent 2,455 days as a hostage in Lebanon. He was the longest held American hostage.

Clarence Thomas was nominated to be the next Supreme Court Justice by President Bush. Before his nomination was confirmed he had to undergo some serious charges of sexual harassment.

Professor Anita Hill brought charges of sexual harassment against Supreme Court Justice nominee Clarence Thomas. The hearings concluded that there was no evidence sufficient to withdraw the nomination.

Thurgood Marshall, the first black Supreme Court Justice, retired this year. Clarence Thomas took his seat in the court.

Entertainment

Michael Jordan flew through the air with the greatest of ease. The 28-year old basketball star of the Chicago Bulls led his team to the NBA championship in 1991.

Magic Johnson, the famed Los Angeles Lakers basketball star, announced he was infected with the HIV virus that causes AIDS.

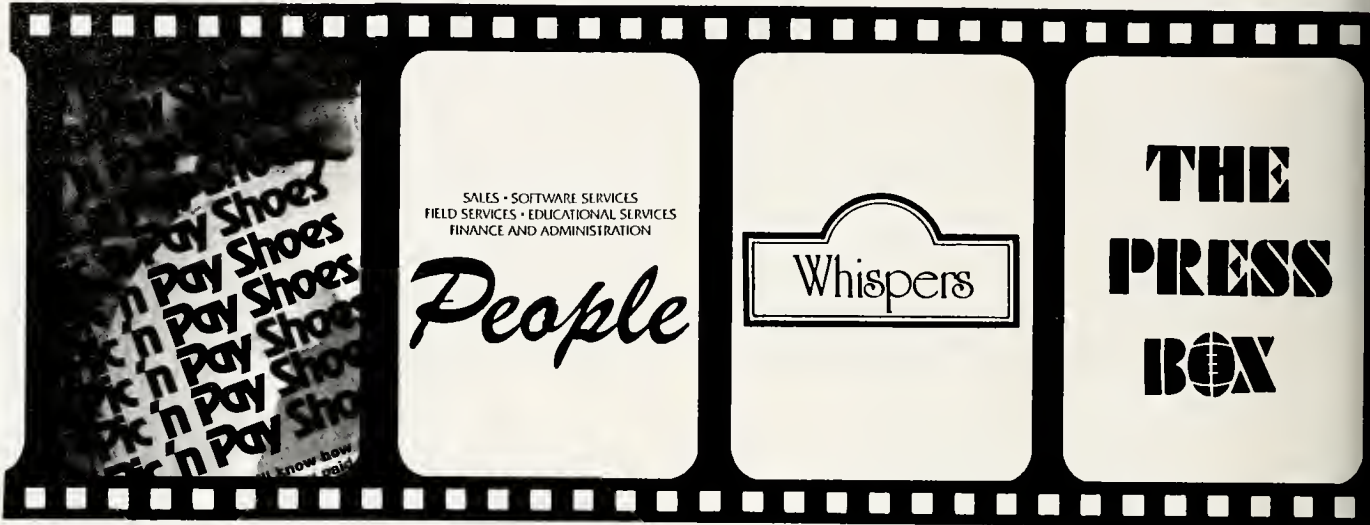

The Grateful Dead has been making hits and great music for 26 years. The band has been on a world tour since before the seniors were born.

Guitarist Nuno Bettencourt of the rock group Extreme designates "Get the Funk Out" as the Boston quarter's theme song. This group also sings the senior's song, "More Than Words."

Natalie Cole pays a tribute to her late father, Nat King Cole, with her latest album "Unforgettable."

As we work to bring the yearbook together there is one part that can not be overlooked. Ads. When we are looking for ads sometimes a "Little Shop of Horrors" turns us down. But then there are those stores and businesses that help us raise money for the yearbook. Without their involvement we would not be able to publish the yearbook. Whether it is "The Shop Around the Corner" or "The Shop on Main Street," they are always appreciated!

Well, if somebody is reading this that means the yearbook is finally done. Hallelujah!!!! I hope you enjoy this year's Arete and the idea of each person being The Movie Maker. That is why the movie titles are everywhere — to help bring home the idea of college life as one of the movies in each individual's life.

For those who have just joined us at Queens your movie is just starting, but for those who have graduated you are probably watching your movie credits. After those credits comes your next movie — the real world; whether that is a job or The Graduate school thing the film is rolling so sit back and enjoy it.

The staff first semester was great. The students were Ready, Willing, and Able to help with the completion of this book. Second semester the staff shrank, but that tinyness evolved into a dedication. That dedication has brought you the book you are holding.

The process of getting a yearbook together is not all sunshine and happiness. Actually this book has been The Bitch from hell to get done. A lot of work has gone into this book and I know when the staff got done with the book they felt like The Incredibly Strange Creatures Who Stopped Living and Became Mixed Up Zombies. All we did was eat and sleep yearbook, photos, layouts, and copy. It was a complete Nightmare. Working on this book hasn't been a cruise into Paradise Lagoon but more like a Cruise into Terror or a Voyage of the Damned. At times I thought that getting this book completed is one of those Pipe Dreams. But I am Happy to say that it is done and it looks great.

I want to thank the Arete staff last semester and especially this semester for helping me finish this yearbook. Also for putting up with my Psych moods when they manifested in the yearbook room. All of you did a great job. Thanks a Million. I really want to thank someone who was my right arm man or should I say woman. Thank you Alicia Edelen. Thanks for Everything you have done for me, whether it was doing a quick layout, trying to cheer me up, or taking control of the class. I'm so glad you were co-editor with me. I also want to thank Wendy Waite and the rest of my professors for being understanding of my mental state this past semester. Thanks goes to Jo Ann our publisher for lending me her computer so I could type in the yearbook. I want to thank my friends, especially Greg, JJ, and Joe, for putting up with madness and rudeness while I was trying to get this book done. And last but not least I want to thank my mom who did some layouts for me at my last deadline. Love ya. Well, the last thanks I have is to you who have bought the yearbook. I hope you enjoy the book and keep it forever. Keep it to look at yourself and your Friends when you were younger. Also to help you find those memories of your life at Queens.

Sincerely Yours,
Kenny Dadisman
